
CONTENTS

RISS Reports

Current Issues of NATO Transformation.

The reports analyses the U.S. approach to relationship with the North Atlantic alliance, which is shaping and realizing in a new transatlantic reality. The authors pay special attention to the ongoing transformation of NATO's policy and activity, as well as contradictions between various North Atlantic allies and other current issues of the alliance.

Keywords: NATO – North Atlantic Treaty Organization – the USA – president D. Trump – transatlantic relations – Jens Stoltenberg – the EU – defense spending – partnership 11

Major Regional Powers' Struggle for Influence in Iraq.

The report observes special aspects for building a series of relationships between Iraq and such major regional powers as Iran, Saudi Arabia and Turkey. Struggle for leadership as well as a complicated historical background of intraregional relations has a considerable impact on the aforementioned actors' actions and tools. The ethno-confessional factor always plays an important role in continuing regional animosities alongside with aspirations by extra-regional actors (specifically the USA and the United Kingdom).

Keywords: the Middle East – Iraq – the Arab world – Iran – Saudi Arabia – Turkey – regional powers – policy – influence – economic and military-technical cooperation 51

International Policy

Vorobyova L. M. Issues Concerning the EU Reforms: Stages, Constraints and Prospects.

The article analyses the process of the EU establishment from the "founding fathers'" concepts until the current initiatives for reforms. The author provides insights into purposes, substance and reasoning for Germany's and France's reformation motions at various stages of the European integrational process and evolving international political environment. Both precipitating and constraining factors for the EU reforms are observed here, including the continuous struggle between the German and the French attitudes to the issue of stabilizing the European monetary union and the euro.

Keywords: the European Union – Germany – France – E. Macron – A. Merkel – the Maastricht Treaty – the Lisbon Treaty 83

Glazova A. V. The U.S. – Turkey Relationship:
Prospects for Overcoming the Crisis and Building a New Model for Cooperation.

The strong disagreements between the USA and Turkey have been aggravating during the recent decade, complicated by rising mutual distrust and skepticism. The contradicting approaches of both sides to the regional security issues lie in the foundation of the relationship's crisis. The author observes reasons for the current situation from the perspective of narratives dominating the American and Turkish political establishments. Basing on the analysis, the author raises an issue of future development of the bilateral cooperation.

Keywords: Turkey – the USA – president D. Trump – the Syrian conflict – S-400 anti-ballistic missile system – strategic priorities 118

Sizov G. A. Chinese Leadership's Evolving Approach to the Issue of Counter-Terrorism.

The article observes the gradual development of separatism, terrorism, and extremism threats in Xinjiang, as well as the evolution of the corresponding counter-terrorism policy of China's government. The focus is on various internal and external factors, making a considerable impact on shaping the modern national institutions and legal framework for the counter-terrorism policy. The Chinese authorities have recently made an emphasis on combining the heavy-handed and preventive educational methods of combating the terrorism threat.

Keywords: China – terrorism – extremism – separatism – counter-terrorism – Xinjiang Uygur Autonomous Region – nationalities policy – national security 134

Ryzhova A. V. The Arctic Policy of Canada's Liberal Government.

Canada's current agenda has focused on the necessity for strengthening the national geopolitical and geo-economical positions in the Arctic region, in a departure from the liberal government's basic priorities for socio-cultural and ecological issues. The country is building up its military footprint in the Arctic for protection of its national economic interests, however with no aim to get involved in a foreign military conflict. Both Russia and Canada are interested in promoting the bilateral regional cooperation. Successful realization of various mutual projects would provide further opportunities for progress in the bilateral dialogue.

Keywords: Canada – the Arctic – the Arctic strategy – security – the Northwestern Passage – China – Russia – cooperation 155

Defense and Security

Vilovatykh A. V. Digital Technologies Factor in Fostering the Protest Movements.

The article analyses the factor of digital technologies in application to popular mentality and public opinion guidance in recent times. The author narrates about potential for using the "deepfake" technology in information warfare. The focus is on the role of social media in fostering protest movements as in the case of Hong Kong social and political unrest in 2019–2020. The article presents some prospects for further sophisticating tools of informational and psychological influence on popular mentality in the age of digitalization.

Keywords: digital technologies – brainwashing – social media – public opinion – social movement – the Hong Kong protest movement – national security 174

History

Nikolaychuk I. A., Yanqlayeva M. M., Yakova T. S. Managing the Past and Protecting the National Interest.

The article deals with one of the hot topics concerning international relations – constructing a narrative, which provides national security and state interest in the competing environment of various powers' struggle for world and regional dominance. The authors observe such a phenomenon as managing the past in a wider context of contemporary politics, making emphasis on the cliopedical philosophy of ruling elites.

Keywords: managing the past – cliopedia – myth-making – politicization of history – construction of memory 186

Yakovkin E. V. Special Aspects of the Japanese Propaganda among the Russian Diaspora in Manchuria during the Second World War.

The article deals with the Japanese effort of propagating their ideology among the Russian emigrants in Manchuria during the years of the Second World War. It also demonstrates evolution of the enemy image exploited in Japan's politics and the Japanese outreach activities aimed at imposing that vision on the local Russian diaspora. The author studies various factors influencing the ideological attitudes' transformation, directions of the propaganda activities, aims and composition of the propaganda materials. He also evaluates the effectiveness of the aforementioned efforts by the Japanese government among the Russian emigrants.

Keywords: the Second World War – propaganda – the Pacific theater of military operations – information war – the Russian diaspora – Manchuria – the Japanese military mission – the Empire of Japan 204

Reviews

Surguladze V. Sh. The Afghan Knot by an Eyewitness Account: the Origin Reasons and Lessons of History.

Book review: Plyais Y.A. Afghanistan : the Origins of Tragedy / By Y.A. Plyais. Moscow : International Relations, 2019. 552 p.

Keywords: Afghanistan – the USSR – the Soviet-Afghan relations – The People’s Democratic Party of Afghanistan (PDPA) – the Saur (April) Revolution – the foreign policy doctrine of the USSR – ideology – party-building 219

Andreev A. V. Russia’s Presence in the Middle East: the One Hundred Year Period.

Book review: Vasiliev A.M. From Lenin till Putin : Russia’s Presence in the Middle East / By Alexei Vasiliev. Moscow : Centerpolygraph, 2018. 670 p.

Keywords: Russia – the Middle East – the Arab world – foreign policy – the USSR – decision making process – region – the USA 232

Gorbatova V. V. The Middle East: a Reflection of the New Reality from a Perspective of Historical Symbolism.

Book review: Gilmour A.S. A Middle East Primed for New Thinking : Insights and Policy Options from the Ancient World // Andrew Skitt Gilmour ; Center for the Study of Intelligence ; Central Intelligence Agency. Washington, DC, 2019. 111 p.

Keywords: the Middle East – the U.S. strategy – the CIA – borders – Islam – historical symbolism 239

Article submission guidelines for publishing in the "Problems of national strategy" journal 245

The opinions expressed in the published articles do not necessarily reflect the view of the Russian Institute for Strategic Studies, the journal "National Strategy Issues", or its editorial board. The editorial board can not guarantee the accuracy and veracity of any information provided by the authors.